

Metaphor

The civilian agent identified their teammate, but the undercover agent guessed their word.

The undercover agent failed to guess the word, but the civilian agent didn't recognize their teammate either.

The civilian agent successfully identified their teammate, and the undercover agent failed to guess their word.